THE NEW FABRICS AND TRIMMINGS.

WOOL DRESS FABRICS—Clinging fabrics have been accorded first place, and this necessitates the use of silk-and-wool in combination; many exclusive weaves from abroad signify the beauty of this perfect blending; pale and pastel shades, delicate colors, subdued tints, and the very brilliant colors. Staple and Novelty Suiting Cloths.

COTTON DRESS MATERIALS—For practical wear the rough weaves are in great demand, and consist of ratine; eponge, and distinctive novelties. Sheer and Beautiful Voiles and Batistes are also very popular, and the colorings are elegant and exceptional.

SILKS—A vogue greater than ever before has been accorded silk weaves, and fashion has favored its devotees with a variety and loveliness little short of marvelous. Soft weaves predominate, the Crepes being decidedly popular, and Crepe Metee, Charmeuse, Messaline, &c., are well represented. Brocades in gold color, nasturtium, peach, &c., as well as two-toned effects, are beautiful and magnificent in design.

LACES, ROBES, TUNICS, AND EMBROIDERIES—Soft effects prevail in laces because of their draping qualities; the shadow effects are seen in several variations. Tunics are beautiful and cut in various lengths, rather adhering to irregularity and quaintness. Robes of sheerest fabrics, in plain white and beautiful color combinations. Embroideries, in the very fine and also the rough effects; novelty combinations are a feature. Trimmings vary greatly—richly colored Bulgarian Bands, Crystal and Rhinestone Trimmings, &c.

THE JUVENILE SECTIONS.

Special attention is directed to the completeness of the various Juvenile Sections, containing all the new lines of wearables for boys and girls of every age. Every article of clothing or requisite to properly complete the wardrobe is shown in abundant assortment. For high-grade, suitability, and general superiority our stocks stand in the front rank. Excellent examples of the most recent developments are now on display—and we invite comparison. The styles are exceptionally smart and never so becoming and wearable.

Boys' Suits, in all plain and novelty fabrics; Straw Hats, Caps, Reefers and Furnishings.

Girls' and Misses' Dresses, Suits, Coats, Millinery, &c., in the prettiest styles with which we have ever opened a season.

Infants' and Little Children's Out-fittings of every character, from the first sizes to 6 years of age.

More favorable conditions for satisfactory buying could not be presented.

EASTER NOVELTIES AND GIFTS.

Choosing novelties and gifts indicative of the spirit of Easter has long been a branch of selection in which we take especial interest and pride. This season is no exception to the rule. We have collected many objects of a distinctive and original nature, the best in their respective classes.

THE IMPORTED EASTER NOVELTIES are many and varied, and each article has been designed and executed with special reference as to its fitness for Easter.

THE GIFTS of a more substantial character, suitable for a remembrance on any occasion, or for Wedding, Anniversary, and Birthday Gifts, are especially fine and elegant.

EASTER STATIONERY—As is our custom, we are displaying many new and fancy tints in boxed stationery. We have the best facilities for engraving Social Stationery of all kinds, and exercise extreme care with all orders, particular attention being devoted to Wedding Invitations and Announcements.

An extensive showing of Easter Cards, Booklets, Table Favors and Decorative Articles, many of them exclusive.

WILSON EVADES CHURCH CROWDS

service were given an informal reception.

Announcing the one hundred and first Psalm for the text of his sermon, Rev. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe said: "This is David's inaugural psalm," and read: "I will sing of mercy and judgment unto thee, O Lord, will I sing." In the course of his sermon Rev. Dr. Radcliffe said:

"The law is not a mere set of rules. Law was not made for the men who made it. No man should be above or below its scope or protection. The great head of our life to-day is the observance of the law. The law is the authority of the government and the sacredness of the laws of the country. The burglar's booty is not any more his own than the tax return of the rich man. It is a good thing for the just entering administration magnifies the minority and sacredness of the law and makes it honorable to obey it."

"Power over others is dependent upon our power over ourselves. We excuse ourselves the man of great passions. The man of great passions is a man of weak passions. He who would rule others must first learn to rule himself. I recognize that if there is anything like Sunday observance they are the right kind of politics."

Speaking of lawmakers and rulers, Dr. Radcliffe said: "The life of the man up on Capitol Hill and the ruler of this nation is my business. I have a right to demand that not only his external deeds be right, but that the internal motives back of the external deeds are right. There is an authority unlimited which spells righteousness. Piety should belong to the ballot box as well as to the dinner table. There is such a thing as a man at the hearthstone, but also in the halls of the Congress. It may not be wise to at once demand that our magistrates and lawmakers be pious men, as it would ruin the wheels of the government. Piety begins at home, and he who is not true to God cannot be true to himself."

Future of Republic.

"The future of the republic is dependent upon the purity and the integrity of the American home. The American home is the source of the nation's life. The White House, and from the White House let us catch the inspiration and spirit of a righteous life which will make our home four-square. I did not erect an 'Amateur Club,' although he was the advocate of righteousness, truth, and virtue. He had no use for the slanderer and liar. He knew the peculiar views of the Christians, and narrated them in the White House. The common man is the emphasis and cherishment of King David, and as we move and move, we knock down the barriers of class distinction, and are sweeping from us the artificial and external to establish true relations founded on righteousness and justice. Every true administration will emphasize law, not liberty; responsibility, not license; duty, and not rights."

The hymns were "The Crusaders' Hymn" and "The Bowled Their Heads to the Conquering Sword."

Bryans Also Worship.

Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan and Secretary of Labor Wilson attended services at First Presbyterian Church, in John Marshall Place, of which Rev. Donald C. MacLeod is the pastor.

He has not yet designated his place of worship. Secretary of Commerce Redfield and Mrs. Redfield are regular attendants at a communion at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Alexandria, where the Redfield family have been communicants for over 100 years. Secretary Daniels, of the Navy, is the only Methodist in the Cabinet, and his church is the Mount Vernon Place Methodist South. Secretaries Garrison, McReynolds, and Houston have not decided upon their permanent church affiliations.

COLUMBIA THEATER.

Box. McCain—"Turkey, Yesterday and To-day."

In the third of his series of travel lectures, at the Columbia, Mr. McCain last night contrasted in camera and word pictures, "Turkey, Yesterday and To-day." Unfortunately for both Mr. McCain and his audience, several of the most interesting portions of the best lecture he has delivered in Washington were lost, due to the continuous and seemingly unnecessary noise made by his motion picture operator.

Mr. McCain's itinerary included a tour of the Balkans, Turkey, Bosnia, and Herzegovina. In the former he secured many splendid views of the natural beauties of the country, and in addition several interesting character studies of the little-known Morlaks, in Mostar, the capital of Herzegovina, he found much that was unique in the ever-shifting street scenes and the activities of the merchants in the bazaar. The famous veiled women who are found nowhere else, also proved of interest.

In Constantinople, Mr. McCain's expedition proved most successful, for here he secured many unusual and in several cases, exceptionally artistic and beautiful pictures of the famous mosques and other show places in and around the city. In contrasting the two cities, Stambul and Pera, which together are known as Constantinople, his motion picture camera proved most effective.

In the native city, Stambul, he was especially fortunate in securing many interesting subjects, while in Pera he was able to obtain a motion picture record of the maneuvers, methods, and equipment of a division of the Turkish army.

This afternoon at 2:30, Mr. McCain will repeat "Turkey, Yesterday and To-day."

MILLINERY GOES UP IN SMOKE.

Easter Stock of Boston Concern Is Ruined by Fire.

Boston, Mass., March 8.—Many thousands of dollars' worth of Easter millinery were destroyed in a spectacular fire in the heart of the shopping district early to-day. The fire started in a four-story building in Summer Street, and before it was discovered by a night watchman had gained great headway and spread to an adjoining building. The damage is estimated at $100,000.

A large number of hot-air explosions rendered the work of the firemen hazardous, one man being blown down a flight of stairs and severely injured, while others suffered minor injuries. After an hour's fight, the fire was brought under control. The extreme cold added to the difficulty of the firemen, the water freezing to the hose and coating ladders and sidewalks with ice.
